Excellence For Learning™ – Administrator Version

Quality education is no accident. It is the combined effort of teachers, administrators, parents, community members and of course, students. When all are working together in harmony, goals and objectives are easily reached and the results are rewarding. However, when conflict arises within the group, the overall goal of providing an optimal educational experience for students is compromised.

The role of the administrator is vital as she/he is responsible for every aspect of facilities management, personnel leadership, public relations, curriculum accountability and student safety and education. The variety of “hats” that are worn by the administrator requires her/him to be flexible and requires adaptive behavioral tendencies. It is often assumed that when a group is working in the same school, that group is a “team.” A team is a collection of people with different personal goals and objectives, behavioral styles, motivations and performance needs. How they interact to achieve the team’s common goals is vital information for the administrator’s success.
